PANAMA CANAL TO FURNISH SCRAP IRON

Llewellyn Works Gets Shipload—Portion of 7000-Ton Cargo

With an ever increasing demand for their finished product, the Llewellyn Iron Works of Torrance imported during the month of October approximately 15,000 tons of raw material that filled 330 railway cars, exceeding by many tons any former record of the company since its establishment here.

A portion of this material was brought from Panama forming part of a 7000-ton cargo of a large sea-going vessel. This particular shipment was made up of rails, dredges, pump castings and other steel and iron machinery used in the construction of the canal and the canal railway lines.

Manager Harwood of the iron works states that never before has the company purchased better steel scrap than that brought from Panama and is now negotiating for the purchase of a large additional lot from that section.

"The Panama shipment," said Mr. Harwood, "consisted of portions of steel machinery such as dredgers that has been damaged to such an extent that repair was impractical; parts of the immense turbines the Panama construction company used in their work and the powerful steel pumps that were used in keeping the water in bound during construction days."

"Much to our surprise the dampness of the tropics has had very little effect on the material, in many cases the mill mark being plainly discernable on the beams and girders that were shipped to us. As to the quality of the material, we have never had anything better for the making of structural steel and iron in the shop and are so pleased with our purchase that an additional lot from the same source has already been secured and will be shipped soon."

PALOS VERDES OFFICE IS BUSY PLACE

Three Upper Floors of Redondo Hotel Filled With Engineers

The three upper stories of the old Redondo Hotel at Redondo Beach are hives of industry since the Palos Verdes Estates corps of engineers, surveyors and draftsmen have taken possession, according to Secretary H. D. Pottinger, of the who spent a portion of Tuesday in company with Chief Engineer Cory, discussing the company's plans.

"Economy in administration," said Mr. Pottinger on his return to Torrance "seems to be the watchword in the organization of the Palos Verdes project. Mr. Cory informed me that while the very best engineers in this country had been engaged by the company for the laying out of the tract there are to be few if any really high-priced places on the company's payroll."

"In each of the divisions of the great work thoroughly competent men are being engaged," continued Pottinger, "but every man is expected to earn his salary, whether large or small—in other words there is to be no dead timber in the organization."

"All of the construction work is to be done by contract and the bids submitted to five practical architects and builders in the employ of the company who will pass on the quality of material as well as the prices asked. The three floors of the hotel now being used as a field office for engineers and others engaged in the preliminary work, are most plainly furnished, without rugs or carpets on the floor or handsome furniture and this evidence of frugality in the expenditures of the public's money will be continued, according to Engineer Cory during the entire progress of the work."

"Plans of the new city will be ready for the stockholders by Christmas, according to Mr. Cory and the drawing of lots and sites in each of the several classes will follow immediately."

KEYSTONE

Mr. Phillips is making a few improvements on his place at corner of Carson and Delores.

Mr. Parsons on Meyer is adding a new section to his pretty place, in the shape of a two story, four-room apartment.

The past week has seen some progressive steps taken in Keystone by the subdivision of the plot of 30 acres on the south side of Ocean avenue, between Meyer and Normandie. Full details are not known at this time but all stakes are in and prospective customers are being shown the property.

Mrs. I. P. Gates and sister Viola Rocque of Los Angeles gave a Halloween party last Saturday evening to a large crowd of neighbors. Admittance was gained by eating a big slick or wooly worm, which put you in fine shape to play the many creepy games. Spooks and weird stories were in order and indulged in freely. A cafeteria lunch was served, with the Halloween spirit ruling the evening.

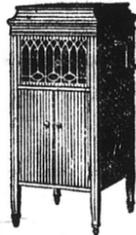

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDonald are now cozily located in their new location at 2035 218th street, Torrance.

Giving A Thought To The Future
